------	-----------	----	----	----

Twins Smoke Shop owner Kurt Kendall of Londonderry, New Hampshire decided to bring back this ancient Northeast brand in 2009. The R.G. Sullivan 7-20-4 had a huge following from its beginning in 1874, but finally died in 1963. The brand was named for the address of Sullivan's original factory – 724 Elm Street – in Manchester, N.H. It's now back as a Honduran handmade, with a medium-to-full body and a Brazilian Mata Fina wrapper, in boxes of 25.

24A69.COM

Handmade in Frankfort, New York, USA.

Wrapper: Cameroon, USA/Connecticut

Binder: Ecuador or Mexico

Filler: Dominican Republic, Mexico, Venezuela

This five-shape line is a part of the Lars Tetens brand and is medium-to-full in body. Created in 1994, the cigars are aged from 2-4 years after rolling. Note the WBC size (4 x 60), one of the earliest big-ring (60+) shapes ever made. All sizes are offered in boxes of 30.

This is a unique brand, introduced in 1999, that offers an herbal aromatic flavor in all of its shapes. The creative force behind this brand is artist Scott “Acid” Chester, who brings his flair for industrial design to the artisanal product and the endlessly inventive Jonathan Drew on the blending side.

Acid (red band) is medium-to-full in body with the Liquid and Nasty shapes finished with a pigtail head and uncut foot; Holistics (yellow) is medium-bodied with all shapes uncut at the foot; Remi (blue) is medium in body with the Blondie shape finished in a pigtail head. Juggernaut (purple) is full-bodied with the Extra Ordinary Larry, Acid One and Ming all finished with a pigtail head. Connecticut Broadleaf is used for all maduro wrappers. The brand uses more than 140 botanicals, herbs and oils to impart a unique flavor. Most sizes are offered in boxes of 24, with the Nefasto, Kuba Deluxe, Kong Cameroon, Roam, Extra Ordinary Larry and Ming in boxes of 10, the Blondie in 40s, 1400 cc in 18s, the Ming Dynasty Belicoso in 12s and the Wafe in boxes of 28 or 70. The C-Note, true to its name, is offered in a box of 100.

The Krush Classic was introduced in 2003 and has a mild-to-medium body, available in tins of 10. It is offered in a choice of wrappers: Red (Cameroon), Gold (Sumatra), Blue (Connecticut) and Morado (maduro). The Fat Tips line, with a plastic tip, was introduced in 2009 and are offered in packs of three in all four infusions: Blue, Gold, Purple and Red.

The Madre, with a Mexican maduro wrapper, was created for the House of Oxford in 2009 and offered in boxes of 24. The Tri-Borough was created for Harold Levinson Associates in 2009. The Limited line (Sumatra wrapper) is distributed by Meier & Dutch and debuted in 2006. The Acid Subculture series was created in 2005 and is distributed by Alliance Cigar. The Ronin has a Cameroon wrapper while the Deluxe and Ridikuloso use Honduran Habano wrappers.

More flavor, more power and more balance was the goal of the MAXX line, introduced in 2006. It's a medium-to-full-bodied blend offered in boxes of 20, or in 100s for all but the Ego and Nano and Vice. The Ego is offered in boxes of 20, the Nano in boxes of 40 and the Vice in boxes of 50 . . . just enough for when friends drop by! The Vice is box-pressed.

Here is another invention from Drew Estate, introduced in 2002. The band features a fierce-looking tiki god and the cigars are equally wild, with a “spiced” blend incorporating “exxotic” spices from Europe and southern Asia. All of the cigars are aged for 120 days after rolling and then cured for a final 45 days before shipment to ensure their aromatic nature. These are full-bodied cigars, produced in limited production of 6,000 boxes annually. The Clove Tiki size, introduced in 2006, actually incorporates cloves into the production process! Most sizes are presented in boxes of 24, with the Kaya in 40s and the Clove Tiki in tins of 10.

Veteran real-estate developer Gene Arganese decided there was room on the market for at least one more brand: his. So in 2007, he debuted the unique Arganese phalanx of cigars, with a choice of three different blends and five different wrapper styles!

The line-up was simplified in 2008. The Connecticut (mild-bodied), Maduro (medium), Nicaraguan (full) and Double Wrap (medium) blends are similar to the original lines and all offered in boxes of 20. The CL[^]3 (full) and ML[^]3 (full) blends were added in 2008 and are also presented in boxes of 20. The Estilo Dominicano, in bundles of 20, debuted in 2008 and use Cuban Sandwich construction for a medium-bodied, value smoke. The “FDW” blend means “first-draw wrapper” and comes in boxes of 40 in three different styles: Connecticut Ruby Red with an Ecuadorian-grown wrapper (mild to medium body); Milan Marble Maduro (medium), also using an Ecuadorian wrapper, and Santiago Sweets (mild), with a Dominican-grown wrapper. The Uno is a spectacular Dominican puro, offered in individual coffins; it’s a full-bodied cigar that’s lightly misted with Cognac!

The S-This “Boston Tea Party Edition” was introduced in 2009 to protest the imposition of the SCHIP taxes by the U.S. government. Two Robusto- or Churchill-sized cigars are fused together and offered in packs of five.

Arturo Fuente learned the art of growing and processing tobacco and the making of premium, handmade cigars in Cuba at the end of the 19th century, producing his own line in 1912. Today, his son Carlos and grandson, Carlos, Jr. oversee an enormous operation producing more than 30 million cigars every year. Their line offers a medium-to-full-bodied taste, with the celebrated Hemingway series (introduced in 1983) a little mellower, thanks to an additional 140 days of aging. Many of the natural-wrapped cigars (including the Hemingway series) feature Cameroon leaves, with Connecticut leaf used for maduros. Most are offered in boxes of 25.

The Cuban Belicoso, Chateau Fuente, Chateau Fuente Royal Salute and Double Chateau Fuente use either Ecuadorian sun-grown, Connecticut-seed or Connecticut wrappers. The King B (introduced in 2005) and Queen B (2009) have Ecuadorian Rosado wrappers and with several other shapes that use a sun-grown Ecuadorian wrapper make up the Fuente Sun Grown series. The Fuente Seleccion d'Oro features a Connecticut Shade wrapper in place of Cameroon.

Robert Levin of Holt's of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania set out to create a great cigar in 1985 . . . and he succeeded. Ashton cigars are manufactured without compromise at the Tabacalera A. Fuente, blending six tobaccos: Dominican filler and Dominican-grown, Cuban-seed binder leaves with perfect shade-grown wrapper leaves from the Connecticut Valley for a medium-bodied taste. Most sizes are offered in boxes of 25, with the Esquire and glass-tubed shapes in 10s and Imperial and Monarchs in 24s.

The spectacular Preferidos 1903 Edition was introduced as a series of perfectos which reprises the shapes made by Don Eduardo Leon Jimenes at the opening of the La Aurora factory in 1903. Introduced in 1998, these are full-bodied cigars, mostly offered in the old perfecto shape that truly brings a little bit of the start of the 20th Century to smokers at the dawn of the 21st Century. All of the lines use a Dominican-grown binder and Brazilian, Cameroon and Dominican fillers, except for the Cameroon and (Brazilian) Maduro lines (Dominican filler only) and the Emerald (Dominican and Nicaraguan filler). The Corojo series was introduced in 2003, Connecticut in 2004 and Emerald (Ecuador wrapper) in 2006. All lines are offered in boxes of 25 except for the tubed shapes (24s) and the Cameroon Lancero (50s).

This wild series was conceived in 2006 and delivered to national distribution in 2007 in three styles. The Juke Series is made in Nicaragua in three styles: Blue, full-bodied with a Nicaraguan maduro wrapper and Nicaraguan binder; Red, medium in body with an Nicaraguan rosado wrapper and Indonesian and Ebony, mild with an Ecuadorian wrapper and Indonesian binder.

The Numbers (formerly Masters) Series is made in Miami in three styles as well: Cameroon Oscuro, medium-bodied with a dark Cameroon wrapper in the 38, 52 and 54 sizes; Cameroon Light, with a light Cameroon wrapper and a medium-to-full body in the 38 and 50 sizes, and Brazilian Maduro, featuring a Brazilian maduro wrapper and a full body in the 44 and 46 sizes.

Three new blends were introduced in 2009. Hellhound features a Nicaraguan-grown, Habano-seed wrapper with a full body. All sizes are cedar-wrapped and offered in boxes of 21. The
