A carefully controlled series of events leads to the production of a Davidoff cigar. This celebrated brand, first created in Cuba in 1946, requires tobaccos which have been aged up to four years. Introduced in November 1990, four different blends were used to create the five original Davidoff series: the large-sized, but mild and light Anniversarios; the mild, delicate and aromatic Nos. 1-2-3, Tubos, Primeros and Ambassadors; the fuller-bodied, but still mild "Thousand" series; and the fullest-bodied Grand Cru and Special ranges, which share the same blend. All Davidoff lines originally used Connecticut-grown wrappers, but Ecuadorian-grown wrappers were introduced to all of these blends beginning in 2002.

The Millennium Blend debuted in 2001, offering a full-bodied taste in four elegant sizes. This group uses an Ecuadorian, sun-grown wrapper and has a double band. The long-awaited Maduro line debuted with a single size in 2008; it uses a Nicaraguan-grown wrapper along with Dominican-grown binder and filler leaves. The Exquisito is a mild-to-medium-bodied smoke, with Ecuadorian wrappers and Dominican binder and fillers.

A two-size Davidoff "Royale" blend was produced only for Davidoff stores in the U.S. in 2009, with an Ecuadorian wrapper and Dominican binder and filler leaves. Medium-to-full in body, the line includes the Robusto (5½ x 55) and the Salomones (8¼ x 57), both offered in boxes of 50.

HANDMADE CIGARS: BRAND LISTINGS

A special edition of Davidoff “Colorado Claro,” previously seen only in 2002, was issued in October 2009 with specially-selected, darker wrappers than the standard Davidoff Special Series line. Three shapes were available and sold-out immediately: Special R (640 boxes), Special T (300) and Short Perfecto (160), all offered in boxes of 10. Another release of 80 boxes of the Double R with this wrapper is expected in late 2009 or early 2010.

Davidoff has been deeply involved in the production of limited-edition cigars. It started in 1997 with the “535” celebrating the 10th anniversary of the company’s store at 535 Madison Avenue in New York (6 x 50 toros in boxes of 20). In 2002, it began formal production of Davidoff Limited Editions:

2002:	Special 48	(4¼ x 48 perfecto in boxes of 10)
	Special 53	(4⅞ x 53 perfecto in boxes of 10)
2003:	Panetela Extra	(6¼ x 40 in boxes of 10)
2004:	Robusto Real <<Especiales 7>>	(5½ x 48 in boxes of 10)
2005:	Robusto Intenso	(5⅛ x 52 in boxes of 10)
2006:	Diademas Finas	(6¾ x 50 unbanded perfectos in boxes of 10)
	Robusto 100	(5 x 50 in boxes of 8)
2007:	Puro Robusto	(5⅜ x 52 in boxes of 10)
2008:	Robusto Extra <<Reserva 12>>	(5½ x 52 in boxes of 10)
2009:	Toro Especial – Seleccion 702	(6⅝ x 48 in boxes of 10)

The 2009 Toro Especial includes an Ecuadorian-grown wrapper and Dominican binder and filler leaves, offered in just 12,500 boxes of 10.

The largest-selling brand in Brazil was introduced in 1977 and came to the U.S. market in 2005. The standard line has a medium-to-full in body with a Mata Fina (maduro-shade) wrapper. It's offered in boxes of 20 or depending on size.

The limited-edition Reserva Especial series debuted in 2006. It's full-bodied and features a Mata Fina wrapper and Mata Fina and Mata Norte interior leaves, available in the Piramide, Double Corona and Robusto sizes only in boxes of 10. The Seleccion is medium-to-full in body with a smoother taste and more pronounced aroma, in boxes of 20 and the Alonso Menendez series (formerly a separate brand) is full-bodied and available in boxes of 20.
