Enrico Garzaroli, the elegant owner of Graycliff — the first five-star restaurant in the Caribbean — wanted a great cigar to complement his cuisine. With the help of the late Avelino Lara (1921-2009), supervisor of the Cohiba brand in Havana for many years, he has it. Starting in 1997 with a single roller, there are now 16 rollers producing these red-labeled, medium-to-full-bodied cigars with gorgeous wrappers and a rich flavor. The Big Bamboo shape is available either straight-sided or in a torpedo format, both with an uncut foot and in boxes of two. All other shapes come in boxes of 24 except for the Roberta, in a bundle of 24.

The Griffin's was created in 1984 by Swiss nightclub impresario Bernard H. Grobet, who owned and operated the Griffin's Club. Word spread throughout Switzerland about the quality of his house cigar and it was introduced in the U.S. in 1989. The filler includes three different Cibao Valley tobaccos combined with a Dominican binder and Connecticut-seed wrapper to give it a mildly spicy, flavorful taste. The maduro-wrapped shapes debuted in 2000 and feature Connecticut Broadleaf for a more full-bodied flavor. All shapes are offered in boxes of 25, or in

The Gurkha brand has been around, in one form or another, since 1887. That's as long as the Gurkhas, a Nepalese tribe who fought for the British in World Wars I and II, have been around. The cigar brand started in 1989 and includes a constantly-changing variety of blends and strengths. Production of most blends was moved from the Dominican Republic to Honduras in 2007.

New for 2009 are a dark series starting with the Ancient Reserve, with a medium-to-full body; the Archive, box-pressed and also medium-to-full; and two full-bodied blends made in Nicaragua: Assassin and Evil! All are in boxes of 20 except the Archive, offered in chests of 92 cigars each!

The Ancient Warrior line is a medium-bodied cigar with a pinch of spiciness, introduced in 2005, offered in boxes of 20. The Avenger G-5 (introduced in 2007) is full in body and is offered in boxes of 20. The Black Dragon line, made in Honduras, was introduced in 2006 in a special edition of five 100-cigar chests priced at $115,000 each. A more down-to-earth version with a Connecticut maduro wrapper, Cameroon binder and Dominican filler debuted in 2007, still with a full-bodied flavor. Three shapes use a slightly different blend: the Dragon Fire is a Nicaraguan puro and box-pressed; the Fury uses a Nicaraguan binder and Nicaraguan and Peruvian filler, and the Red Dragon has a Cameroon wrapper and binder and Costa Rican filler.

The G3 series was introduced in 2006 and is full in body. The Grand Reserve shows a mild-to-medium body in bronze wax-sealed glass tubes offered in a vertical wood display, with a Connecticut wrapper, all Dominican filler and a light finish thanks to a touch of Louis XIII Cognac. The newer maduro-wrapped shapes use Connecticut Broadleaf wrappers, a little Honduran filler and have a medium-to-full-bodied flavor.

His Majesty's Reserve is one of the most expensive cigars anywhere with a list price of $7,500 per box of 20 and is medium-to-full in body. The Royal Reserve line debuted in 2008 and is medium-to-full in body, offered in boxes of 22. The Signature Anniversario debuted in 2007 and has a medium body with a Connecticut wrapper (Red) and full body in Nicaraguan maduro (Black), presented in boxes of 48.

The Special Editions include seven different blends. The Beast and Titan were introduced in 2005, both full-bodied and each limited to 1,000 boxes per year. The Crest editions started in 2007 and are full-bodied. The other Special Editions include Black Beauty, a mild-to-medium blend with an Ecuadorian wrapper, Dominican binder and Nicaraguan filler (boxes of 25); Grand Age, medium-to-full in body with a Cameroon wrapper, Nicaraguan binder and Nicaraguan and Peruvian filler (50s); Warlord, full-bodied, with a Nicaraguan wrapper and filler and Dominican binder (30s); Elegance, with a Connecticut wrapper and binder plus a Dominican-grown filler and Ghengis Khan, using six-year-old Connecticut wrapper, Cameroon binder and Honduran filler. The Triad series was introduced in 2009 and priced at $50 each for the Natural and $100 each for the Platinum (both in boxes of 20).

Status is a new line for 2007, with a medium body, offered in frosted glass tubes in chests of 30. The Vintage Shaggy line debuted in 2006 and is medium in body with an uncut foot. All five shapes come in an all-Dominican blend, with separate additional blends for the natural and maduro lines.

Some lines are not currently in production, but will return in the future. These include the Gurkha Legend, introduced in 2003 with a full-bodied taste in three sizes, and the full-bodied Master's Select series.

The G-Series tinned cigars debuted in 2006 in five blends: Dark Blend No. 8 (Connecticut maduro wrapper, mild-to-medium-bodied), Havana Select Blend No. 85 (Nicaragua wrapper, medium), Classic Blend No. 44 (Connecticut wrapper, mild-to-medium), Natural Light Blend No. 225 (Connecticut wrapper, mild-to-medium) and Mild Light Blend No. 967 (Connecticut wrapper, mild), all in tins of 10.

The K-Series Tins were introduced in 2006 and are machine-made in the Dominican Republic, with an Indonesian wrapper. A dizzying array of flavors is available: Amaretto, Cognac, Chocolate, Orange, Passion Fruit, Ancient Warrior, Tiramisu, Kiwi Vanilla, Passion Mint, Sumatra, Mango Cream, Exotica de Orient and Vanilla, all in tins of seven.
