The 1990 and 1992 Vintage lines were introduced in 2003. Both of these blends, created by Rocky Patel, feature special wrappers. The 1990 Vintage is mild-to-medium in body and uses a Honduran Broadleaf wrapper for a full-bodied taste with a spicy flavor. The medium-bodied 1992 Vintage uses a Sumatra-seed leaf grown in Ecuador for the wrapper, yielding a milder spice and plenty of richness. Both are offered in boxes of 20, with the Robusto and Churchill (glass) tubos, Toro Tubos and the Juniors in boxes of 10.

The 1999 Vintage was introduced in 2006 and features a seven-year-old, light Connecticut wrapper. It's mild-bodied, offered in boxes of 20.

The new tubed cigars are color-coded by blend: red for the 1990, black for the 1992 and white for the 1999. The Rockchild is made specially for Alliance Cigar and available in the 1990 Vintage and 1999 Vintage blends only.
