Robusto	Rothschild	5	55	Ma

This brand, then known as “TTT Trinidad” was first introduced to the U.S. market in late 1997. A lengthy trademark dispute was finally resolved in June 2001 in favor of Diego Trinidad, heir of the Trinidad trademarks for the territory of the United States, allowing further production of the brand, which was taken over by Altadis USA in 2002. The natural-wrapped blend offers a medium-to-full-bodied taste with a Sumatra-seed wrapper and Connecticut binder. Elegantly presented in cabinets of 20, it is designed to garner the same respect as its namesake, originally produced in pre-revolutionary Cuba.

The maduro-wrapped series debuted in 2004. This blend uses a Connecticut Broadleaf wrapper and an Indonesian-seed binder for a striking, full-bodied taste. All of the maduro-wrapped shapes are box-pressed and offered in boxes of 20 except for the Trini Petites (packs of 7) and Petite Robustos (in 3s and 20s).

The Maduro Cabinet Seleccion series is specially made for Harold Levinson Associates of Farmingdale, New York and debuted in 2007. It's uniquely presented in cabinets of 16!

In mid-2006, Altadis USA issued a set of 400 custom humidors to mark the 100th anniversary of the brand (actually in 2005) with a limited edition of 40,000 cigars featuring a Mexican-grown Corojo wrapper and Nicaraguan binder and filler. Each humidor included three sizes: 4¼ x 54 (33), 5 x 54 (33) and 6 x 54 (34), but the blend proved so popular that the line was moved to standard production in 2008. All three shapes are offered in boxes of 35.
